round he rang the bell on the twelfth and fourteenth shots, and placed four shots "on the line." His su-cess was greeted with tumultaous applause. Mr. Saydam next took his position and fired his first twesty shots, one of which, being off the target, was of come saled out, and the judges announced the parties seeme on the first round. Four of the shots were on the line. Loud applause greeted his success. After the lapse of a few minutes order was again restored, and Mr. S. commenced his second round favorstored, and Mr. S. commenced his second round favor-ably. On the fourth shot he rang the bell and was apd. The fifth shot not hitting the target, he handed the pistol to the "loader," and told the judges handed the place to shoot say more.

Thus the match terminated, and the judges announced

Mr. Travis as the winner.

The firing was made thus rapid on account of the great skill and proficiency of the parties with this patent weapon-the hair-trigger dueling-pistol. The match was one of unusual interest, both parties being acknowledged as among the very best pistol-shots in th country. Travis is a professor of the art, and for near twenty years has practiced it, having given lessons to thousands of pupils. He has performed the most daring feats, as that of shooting an orange off a man's

THE BRICK CHURCH PROPERTY. SUPREME COURT-Special Term-Dec. 10.—Before Judge ROOSEVELT. THE TITLE STILL IN LITIGATION—A FREE FIGHT BE-

ROSSIVELT.

RESTITLE STILL IN LITHGATION—A FREE FIGHT BETWEEN COUNSEL.

Richard Arkenburgh and Wm. P. Earie art. The Commissioners of the Sinking Fund and the Mayor, Ac.

The title of the Brick Church property is involved in this suit, which was commenced last May. At that time Judge Roosevelt, after argument, refused to grant an injunction to restrain the defendants from executing a deed of sale of their interest in the premises to Messes. Wesley, Keep and James, who purchased the property at anction for $270,000. An application to the same effect had meantime been made in the Superior Court, and argument heard thereon before Judges Duer and Hoffmen. In both cases the hearing took place at the house of the presiding Justice in the evening. No definitive decision was delivered in the Superior Court (though a se-argument was ordered on one point), because the Astoraey-General, by whom that suit had been ostensibly brought, refused to authorize the further use of his name.

A deed of the property was then immediately executed and fully recorded. This may, however, the Islantiffs claim, be rescinted in case of a decision adverse to its validity, inasunach as it was made during the pendency of this suit. The case use now been reached on the calendar, the defendants having demerced to the complaint.

The principal grounds upon which the defendants ely are, we understand, that the interest of the city are, we understand, that the interest of the city The principal grounds upon which this detendants rely are, we understand, that the interest of the city should have been sold reparately at suction, instead of being the subject of a private arrangement between the parties, subsequently to the general auction sale of the preperty; and that the ordinance of the Common Courcel authorizing the disposition of the interest of the Corporation was void, because nearly two years had classed between its adoption by the Aldermen and the corporation of the Courcilman, an entire chasse had clapsed between its adoption by the Alder men and the concurrence of the Councilmen—an entire change in both Roards having taken place in the interval. It is elaimed that a recent decision of the Supreme Court at General Term settles the latter point.

The specific grounds of the defendants in their demurrer are, that there is a defect of parties in that the Brick Prophyterian Church and Messrs Wesley, Keep & James are not joined as defendants; that the suit stould have been trought in the name cluber of the People, the Attorney General, or the Mayor, &c.; and that the plaintifie, at all even a, have no right to see, in a much as it is not averred that they are diffuses, tay-payors, or otherwise interested in the property.

The latter would undoubtedly be a fatal objection, if true. And in print of fact this necessary averment was not centained in the complaint originally served.

But the psaintiffs claim that the requisite amonument has been properly made and served, and pray to be heard on the complaint thus amended. Mr. O Conor. however, who appears for the defease, affirms that this is his first notice of the amendment; that the for a in which the detaurrer is drawn proves that it was in-tended to meet the original complaint, and deman's that the suit be dismissed.

tended to meet the original complaint, and doman is that the suit be dismissed.

Upon this, a very acrimonious debate sprung up between Mesers. Field and Hurchins on the one side and Mr. O'Conor on the other. The discussion took a wide range, and lasted for nearly an hour. Mr. O'Conor declared that he believed the case to have been brought on at this time for the express purpose of affecting the ma ket; it was the bulls and bears of Wall street, and not Judge Roosevelt who were to issue the injunction, and he had every reason now to fight the case, point by point and held the other side to the strict rules of law. Whatever the issue of the little tion, the great aim of his opponents would be gained; the news would reach Washington, through the reporters, that the title was in jeopardy, and that two Courts had, as was urged by Mr. Field, between them so decided.

had, as was urged by Mr. Field, between them so decided.

To all this it was answered, that the case was set down for yesterday on the motion of Mr. Wilcrason on behalf of the city; that the plaintiffs believed their case a gord one; and that it was brought in two courts, and in different names, in order to make sure that it might not fall through from a defect in form. The Supreme Court having decided that suits of this nature could, and the Superior Court that they could not, be brought by a tax-payer.

The Court finally ordered that the case stand over for a couple of days, to give time to the plaintiffs to take an order to show cause why they should not be heard on the amended complaint.

Joseph Strong et al. art. Hugh Maxwell.

The defendant is sued as late Collector of New York, to recover moneys paid under protest as duties in 1851 to 1853 upon various importations of zinc tor sheathing, charged at 15 per cent ad valorem, the plaintiffs claiming that they are free as sheathing metal under Shedule I. of the act of 1816. Evidence as to the nature of sheathing metal was introduced on both sides.

It was claimed by Mr. Joschimissen on the part of the defense, that Congress did not intend to admit free of duty all metals ared as sheathing, but only on articles known in the trade as "sheathing metal" or "yellow metal" indiscriminately.

PROVISIONS ON SHIP BOARD.

Occurse Thurling agt. Thos. Ducham and Frederick Durham.

This action grows out of the Passenger Act of Courses, passed in 1935, and is brought by a steerage passenger in the ship Quickstep, on a trip from New-York to London, against her ewes.

The act is small provided to the past in the second of the past in the p

The act is question requires shipowners to provide certain specified provisious for, and to sever them out to each passenger, at the rate of one-tenth per week. A breach of this provision is made a penal offense on the part of the master, for which he may be tried in the Circuit Court of the United States. The master of the Quickstep is now under arrest therefor. This pena i provision is, however, not to deprive a passenger of his civil remedy or affect the owner's responsibility.

civil remedy or affect the owner's responsibility.

The plaintiff rests his suit upon an alleged violation, let, of the act of 1855, and 2d, of his contract with the owner of the Quickstep.

The first cause of action was struck out on the ground that a suit for the recovery of money under the act must be brought in the United States District Court. Some evidence respective the provisions served out was introduced, but the jury brought in a verdict for the defendants without much hesitation.

The Boston Post says in regard to the Money

"The Boston Money market continues to feel the effects of the last stringency in New-York. On Pridey and Saturday it was quite close, with an indisposition on the part of the banks to lend, with the manifed lack of specie in the street. Some half a dozen of the banks held a fair amount of coin, but most of the others are miscrably off, as appeared by the last, and will appear, doubtless, by the next weekly returned How a remedy is to be applied we know not, but the evil lited, without question, is the result of meager of ill managed resources, in comparison with the basisms done; or of ignorance of good banking; or of an overweening desire to make every cent possible, at all risks and inconveniences; or, finally, of an undescrepted or the street of influence upon the bank management compelling it to lend whether it have anything to lead or not, and whether the pressure come from the directors themselves, their personal friends, or outside berrowers. The evil has never yet been cured by intelligence, mederate desire, caution, conservation, prefereignal pride and high feeling. The Boston market wantly suffers from it once or twice a year; and, as he gerce, moderate desire, caution, conservatism, prefereional pride and high feeling. The Boston marks usually suffers from it once or twice a year; and, as the case now, people wonder why money is worth 1 to 12 % cent in State street, to general borrowers when it can be had in Wall street at 8 to 10. Some few of our banks, as before remarked, hold speed enough, and are nover deterred by the fear of losts in terest, or by the pressure of borrowers, from pursuin a course of business that is both asfe and convenient to themselves, while it conduces to the regularity as well being of the market."

FRENCH SCHEMES OTHER THAN THE CREDGE MOBILIER.

In discussing the present condition of affairs in France, so much has been said of the Credit Mobiliar that many persons probably imagine this institution is the sole offspring of the speculative masts that her raged with such violence on the Continent of Europe during the last three years. But if it were possible to get a list of the new sedemes started, it would present an army of figures and of the financiering capabilities of the day, that would throw the Credit Mobiles quite into the shade.
